

WELLNESS CONCEPT COLON DETOX PROGRAM

Why Detox?

Detoxification is a thorough cleansing process to remove environmental, dietary toxins naturally. When your body is full of toxins, it will start to display signs such as tiredness, aching body, fatigued mind and low energy level. This is because our body is constantly working to expel toxins through the liver, lungs, kidneys, skin, bowel and lymphatic system in order to achieve balance.

The younger and healthier you are, the more effective this process is. But as you grow older or as your health deteriorates, this self-cleansing mechanism can become overloaded. This weakens our body immune system and makes us more susceptible to sickness and chronic diseases. Pay close attention to your body and when you notice these symptoms, it's time for you to detoxify your body.

To prevent massive toxins build up inside your body, you should detoxify your body with a detoxification program preferably once every 3 months. Detoxification is an approach for you to get in tune with your body and cleanse the internal systems to prevent toxin build up.

Where do toxins come from?

Toxins reach us through a variety of ways - from the air, water, food and even our lifestyle. It starts to accumulate in our body and will cause diseases.
